EU funded health projects help fight HIV/AIDS

1 December 2009

On World AIDS Day, 1 December, the Executive Agency for Health and Consumers draws attention to EU funded projects, which bring together people living with HIV, doctors and health personnel, researchers, activists, and policy makers to ensure an adequate response to epidemic.

There were 44 projects tackling HIV/AIDS co-funded in the framework of the European Health Programme between 2006 and 2009. The total funding for these actions amounted to 22,484,658 euro.

The funded projects deal with the key issues related to the epidemic, such as prevention, surveillance, access to health care, training of carers and building of political support through advocacy.

Health: Calls for proposals 2010 to be launched already in 2009

19 November 2009

The European Commission is planning to publish the Work Plan for 2010, which sets the annual priorities for the implementation of the EU Health Programme, already in 2009.

The calls for proposals for projects, operating grants, conferences and joint actions will be launched immediately after the Work Plan is published.

Tentative deadline for submitting proposals will be early March 2010.

- Health: Find a project partner
- Health: Project database
- National Focal Points for Health Programme
- Technical meetings
- Health: Register to be an expert for EU Health Programme
- Better Training for Safer Food: Calls for tender

EU Health Programme - Financing mechanisms

The aim is to ensure full stakeholder participation in the Programme to organisations which take forward the health agenda

- Cofinancing an action (public or private body or NGO) intended to achieve a Programme objective. Financial contributions by the Community will cover up to 60% of project costs.
- Cofinancing the operational costs of a non-government organisation or a specialised experts network. Operational grants may be given to NGOs of up to 60% of costs.
- Joint financing a public body or non-government organisation by the Community and one or more Member States. Community contributions may be up to 50%.
- Joint actions with other Community programmes, which will additionally provide coherence between this instrument and other Community programmes

3.1 Exceptional utility (actions considered with very significant European Added Value) the Community contribution shall not exceed 80%, shall not be more than 10% of the applications.

3 Surveillance

2008 - European MSM Internet survey on knowledge, attitudes and behaviour as to HIV and STI, EMIS

8 Partners: University of Maastricht (NL), Sigma Research (UK), University of Portsmouth (UK), Regione del Veneto (IT), Center for Epidemiological Studies on HIV/AIDS of Catalonia (CEESCAT) (ES)

EMIS aim to improve 2nd generation surveillance and prevention work among MSM in the participating European countries.

Methods: EMIS will generate comparable data about HIV and STI behaviour, HIV and STI prevention needs, gay community characteristics, and other sexual health-related issues among MSM in Europe by means of a common Internet survey, advertised and promoted on popular MSM websites and conducted in various European languages.

The intended European survey will inform the planning of prevention interventions for MSM by identifying prevention needs unmet across diverse groups of MSM (priority aims), and identifying subgroups of MSM who have many prevention needs poorly met (priority target groups).

EU funded projects

The EU funded projects listed below are HIV and AIDS related projects that are funded within the 1st or 2nd EU Public Health Programme. They don't necessarily have a formalised working relation with AIDS Action Europe, although it is well possible that some organisations involved in these projects are also a member or partner of AIDS Action Europe. This section provides an exchange platform by and for EU funded projects.
